In Memoriam

Tom Ryan

Long-time Stratford Master Gardener and Coordinator Tom Ryan of Stratford passed away on February 23rd, 2020. A member since 1995, Tom was Co-Coordinator with the late Eric Hewison from 1997 to 2008. He is fondly remembered for his knowledge and friendship.

Member Profiles

Jim Fitzgerald & Don Farwell

Jim Fitzgerald, who served as Coordinator from 2008 until 2020 has recently retired from the post. He has done a wonderful job, leading by example and always willing to share his experience with members and the public at large. He is incredibly knowledgeable and has been an active volunteer at events. As a member since 2003 we are so pleased to know that he will remain active and continue to play a crucial role. Way to go Jim!

Leslye presenting Jim with a token of our appreciation

Don Farwell, who acted as Co-Coordinator with Jim, has taken on the role of Coordinator. Leslye Glover has taken on the role of Secretary and is playing a huge part in supporting our group. She is dynamite!

Information Related to the Covid-19 Pandemic

Volunteer Hours and Continuing Education Units (CEU) Requirements

Given the cancellation of many key events (e.g. Canada Blooms, Pollination Guelph Symposium) as well as events all around the province, and the uncertainty of future events, the requirements for volunteer hours (both administrative and advice hours) as well as CEUs are suspended for this year. Master Gardener volunteers are encouraged to continue tracking their hours for information purposes, but there will be no requirement to fulfill a specific number of hours or Continuing Education Units in 2020.

In Person Meetings - Cancelled

While Master Gardener groups have wisely cancelled all in person meetings, I'd like to stress that even the smallest of meetings (e.g. even 2 people) should be cancelled for the foreseeable future. If you'd like to schedule a virtual meeting using our GoToMeeting connection, please contact Suzanne Zacharczyk (gardensinthecity@rogers.com) and Director of Operations Pamela Dallaire (pameladallaire@hotmail.com) one month in advance. Suzanne and Pamela are starting to get a number of requests and can only schedule about two meetings per week. Pam has also shared these alternatives for groups to connect remotely:

Here is a list of free apps for video and voice connections: <https://dailyhive.com/vancouver/free-online-video-call-apps>.

Supporting Garden Based Businesses

Stokes Seed Company donated 14 boxes of catalogues for distribution at Canada Blooms and have also supported us with a generous $1000.00 donation each year. Luckily, gardening is not cancelled, so we'd like your help in getting these catalogues out to the public - not with a paper copy, but with a virtual one. Please consider adding pertinent links to your website or sharing information on social media. This is important not only for Stokes, but for other garden suppliers who may be at risk financially due to the ongoing restrictions necessary to slow the spread of the Covid-19 virus.

Feel free to share any or all of these links:

Many seed companies are still able to do business online however be aware that many are currently experiencing high volumes and may not be able to ship for a few weeks. Here's a list from recent recommendations on the MGOI Facebook Group:

Supporting Our Communities

Lorraine Johnson, one of our Honorary Master Gardeners recently posted this: “Dear Gardeners: for those of you who have the skills and the resources, please prioritize starting veggie seedlings so that as the weather warms you can:

- 1) devote more garden space this year to food production to donate to those in need; and
- 2) give the seedlings to people in need who have a balcony or community garden plot or some other place to grow veggies.

I hope that everyone who is able to will grow food for the many, many people who are in need. Please spread this message to all gardeners you know.

In these uncertain times, Master Gardeners are showing that they are able to adapt and support the gardening public in new & innovative ways. Thanks for your many social media posts, humour and continued dedication to gardening.

In closing, I'd like to include some ideas from Cathy Kavassalis' Guide to Social Distancing post on Facebook.

A Moment for Membership

by Pam Love, Director

Introducing Karen Sciuk, New Vice President MGOI

Karen Sciuk has been involved with Master Gardeners since she was recruited by the Durham Master Gardeners group (DMG) at the Oshawa Peony Festival in 2009. She held the role of Coordinator of DMG for fiscal year 2013 / 2014. She also was on the board of the Oshawa Garden Club, a Horticultural Society in District 17, as well as being the Manager / Buyer / Grower in the trees / shrubs/ perennials department of an Oshawa area garden centre. This experience enhanced her skills at interacting with the public and contributed greatly to her knowledge of horticulture. She loves to interact with the public, encouraging others to share her passion for gardening.

Moving to the Township of Wellesley near Waterloo in 2015, Karen became involved with the Kitchener Master Gardeners, holding the role of Co-Coordinator. She joined the MGOI board as SW Regional Co-Director in 2016, in addition to being the President of the Wellesley Horticultural Society and Assistant Director of District 19 Ontario Horticultural Association (OHA) since 2019. She is an enthusiastic organizer!

Currently, to satisfy her love of horticulture, Karen is a garden coach in her community and helps to maintain some private residential gardens. She continues to be an active speaker now in the Region of Waterloo and surrounding area, giving diverse talks for various Horticultural Societies and other community groups. Her main passions are Pollinator Gardens and Soil Health that led to her role in helping Wellesley Township to be designated the 20th Bee City, and the Region of Waterloo to become Canada's first Bee City region.

Profiles – New Co-Directors of Education

by Pam Love, Director of Membership

Kate Sault and Inger Knudsen will share the role of Director of Education effective May 1, 2020.

Kate joined Halton Region Master Gardeners in April of 2014 after retiring from the Ecology and Evolutionary Biology Department at the University of Toronto (U of T). Gardening had always been a passion but there was never enough time while working.

The head gardener in the U of T greenhouse was a dahlia enthusiast which led to Kate's dahlia passion. The sizes, colours, and forms of the flower are amazing.

In the last few years, Kate has been turning a large part of her garden into a pollinator friendly, native plant garden as her lawn is being slowly eliminated.

Welcome Kate!

Inger Knudsen loves learning about plants, being able to share her knowledge of plants, and being involved in her community of Guelph Wellington.

She joined the Guelph & Wellington Master Gardener group 10 years ago. She was the Coordinator for three years and is presently the assistant Coordinator.

Inger studied horticulture and worked in nurseries in Denmark before coming to Canada in 1982 where she obtained her Horticulture Diploma and continues to learn.

Ingrid has tons of experience and a passion for gardening which she shares by giving many talks and enjoying the camaraderie with other Master Gardeners. At the Guelph Arboretum she is involved with the Roots and Shoots garden, a woodland garden with challenging soil conditions, where, over time, they have been able to create a beautiful garden/woodland for people to enjoy and from which to draw inspiration.

Welcome Inger!

London – Middlesex Master Gardeners

Name: March 7th Seedy Saturday, London's Garden Fest – a big success!

Details: We are feeling so sad about all the great events that have now been cancelled. What a difference a week makes!

Attendance at the gate went over the top – 1041! (up 68% over last year). Our main room was filled by 44 vendor booths and 26 community non-profit exhibits.

It helped that Mother Nature cooperated with a nice sunny day. Our 'headliner' and fellow Master Gardener, Sean James, was a big hit who drew a full house for his morning talk on 'What We Used to Kill'. Thanks again Sean!

Two other talks also filled the speaker's room – thanks to our own Julie Dorssers for a great job on 'For the Love of Trees' and to Brenda Gallagher of Upper Thames Conservation Authority for her talk on 'Invasive Plant Species'.

This was one big team effort – a committee of eight with 20 LMMGs members, Amy's little 'Hughman' plus eight friends and family volunteering that day.

Thanks to everyone for the hard work that made this a success!

Cancelled

Canada Blooms, Toronto & Spring Tide Bulb Show, Hamilton

It was like a punch in the stomach when I heard that Canada Blooms was cancelled, although it was entirely justifiable in light of COVID 19 developments unfolding daily. But totally unprecedented. It was almost like spring had been cancelled.

Like a lot of people I like to complain that Canada Blooms has become too commercialized, that it opens too soon, that it doesn't belong with the National Home Show, yada yada yada. But the reality is that I look forward to it every year and can't wait for it to open. For many gardeners it's the official start of spring, a highly anticipated event for gardeners who travel to Toronto from all over Ontario (my friend's friend from Deep River had just arrived in Toronto to visit CB for the first time and was hugely disappointed over the cancellation).

The pictures posted on FaceBook were greatly appreciated.

Thankyou Paul Gellatly

and for the inside scoop.

Landscape Ontario has posted a short video of what was to have been on YouTube:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2w6ehLPjXU>.

We can only look forward to 2021!

Spring Tide Bulb Show, the bulb festival in Hamilton's Gage Park Greenhouse was scheduled to run from March 13th to March 22nd. Spring Tide was also cancelled.

I am fortunate to report that the Hamilton Gage Park greenhouse is just beyond my backyard which gives me easy access.

I visited the Gage Park Greenhouse on March 14th to bask in the tropical Eden – greenhouse bathing as it were.

Button Quails

The greenhouse is a 14,000 square foot tropical paradise replete with birds – diamond doves and button-quail – who contribute to the greenhouse Integrated Pest Management (IPM).

Meet Kramer, a resident Arum titan (Amorphophallus titanum) or Corpse Flower.

When Arums are grown in captivity they are given names.

Young Arums as yet unnamed

Here are a few more residents of the greenhouse.

The large Banana Tree

The following pictures of spring bulbs planted amongst the tropicals show the promise of what Spring Tide might have been. Again we can only wait until next year.

A tropical planter with the promise of Hamilton spring

The Australian Tree Fern unfurling a frond

Calathea lancifolia with Pansies

One of the resident turtles

Daffodils peeking out from a few tropicals.

The next day the greenhouse closed to the public.

Of particular fascination for me is Gage Park's Dawn Redwood tree (Metasequoia glyptostroboides) – perhaps not in this locale since the dawn of time but here now. This is a deciduous coniferous tree rediscovered in China in 1944; Dawn Redwood has been growing on earth for at least 2M years. Note the red bark.

Why it's called the Redwood Tree

Of the over 2000 trees including 87 species in Gage Park there are a few huge old beech trees that have been fenced off to help preserve them. The estimate is that they are between 200 and 300 years old.

This is the trunk of the largest tree. It had rained on the day of the picture which is why the bark is so dark.

So now for the time being people have to be content to take a walk in the park and engage in forest bathing.

Of Possible Interest to Master Gardeners

2020 Shaw Festival Garden Tour

The Shaw Festival Garden Tour will take place on June 13th, 2020. Master Gardeners may be interested in "making a day of it in Niagara-on-the-Lake" by also attending the lunch-time play, taking in a backstage tour, and just enjoying the main street.
